Special.....IN THE SHADOW OF THE MOUNTAINS.... Edison 2 Rael Feature Bad luck in Wall Street drives George Foster to Canyonville in the Rockies. He goes into a mining partnership. There he falls in love with a daughter of one tense, the recognizance was forfeited, of his associates and discards his former sweetheart who has practically deserted in the absence of the defendant, to be him since his ruin in Wall Street.

The mine evenually turns out a boranca, but more capital is needed to devolop it. A 'get-rich quickly' advertisement brings floods of money. Federal authorities arrest Foster for using the mails illegally, but the nuggets from the mine disprove any such view. A stirring drama full of excitement. Our Third Reel Will Be -

Tells Women He Can Do Noth-

DELEGATES

Declare He Refused to Admit Most of Them and Scores Refuse to Shake

Washington, Feb. 3. - President Wilson again told the woman suffrasists of the United States that he could not help them to obtain an amendment to the constitution enfranhising them. When 400 working women and girls, epresenting ten states and more than arty industries, called at the White House, the president explained to them that he could not take the initialive in endorsing legislation and that woman suffrage would have to e supported by the Democratic party before ne would express his views upon it.

Many of the women were angry at heir treatment by the president, and a score or more of them refused to shake Mr. Wilson's hand as they filed by at the reception following the hear-

Later, at a mass meeting, the women voiced their anger.

"I don't believe we moved the president an inch nearer suffrage," said Mrs. Glendower Evans, of Boston, one of the leaders. "His hand was a poor apology for the insult of shutting the It is Believed Town of Gon-White House door in the face of 375 women. He would not shut the door in the face of 375 votes."

Miss Doris Stevens, of the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage, said President Wilson had broken his promise, because he agreed to admit the entire delegation, and when they appeared allowed only twenty-five women of the 400 marchers to enter his office during the hearing.

"President Wilson told the same old story," said Miss Rose Winslow Twenty of the girls refused to shake ands with him after the hearing beause word had been passed down the me that Mr. Wilson did not want to nake hands.'

The working girls marched on the White House from the public library ike an invading host, with colors flying and a band playing. While their ommittee of twenty-five went into he executive offices to interview the resident the rank and file remained ithout, waiting for tidings as to whether they could expect the help of the chief executive of the United States in their battle for the vote.

A sensational feature of the meetng was introduced when Mrs. Glenower Evans, of Boston, virtually acused the president of duplicity in onnection with the woman suffrage novement. She told the president that e had almost told the suffragists at sea Girt that he favored the woman uffrage movement, "That is what you old us when you were gunning for otes," she said.

President Wilson laughed and said e was not quite sure that he was unning for votes." "I can only peak for my party," he said.

The president said that as leader of the Democratic party he was limited only to recommending those things on which the party had made up its mind "We don't want you to break with your party, but we would like you to influence them," replied Mrs. Evans. "It isn't a question of breaking with the party," returned the president. "It is a question of speaking for it."

The president did not continue the discussion, but expressed a wish to meet the women who were waiting outside.

"But they told us we couldn't all come in," remarked Mrs. Evans.

"It must be a misunderstanding," said the president, and he sent word out that he would like to have the delegation come in. They came in, single file, passing in one door and out an-

At their exit Dr. Mary Walker, at tired in high hat, trock coat and trousers, argued with the women that sulfrage was a state issue. She had at tempted first to get into the predent's office as a suffragist and then as a newspaper correspondent, but was refused admittance and shown into an antercom. Later she eluded the secret service men and crowned into the office and was hid from view among the women.

PARADE AT WILKES-BARRE

John Jay, With $700 Image of Himself, Will Ask Congress to Erect It Somewhere In Washington.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Feb. 3. - Clear the way for the McDevitt special. John Say, who got hold of a $2500 bank roll couple of years ago and went down to New York on a train of his own and was a "millionaire for a day," is starting on another exclusive train for Washington. This time he's trying to unburden himself of the weight of 3000 perfectly good bucks.

If statues are put up to great men at all, why not jack 'em up before said great men have passed by, he asks. And so he's had a bronzed statue of himself put together at the expense of $700 and he's going to take it down to the capitol and ask the lawmakers to put it up somewhere. He doesn't care if it's on top of the White House, in the doorway at Shoemaker's on Pennsylvania avenue or out in Z street, N. N. W. by S.

HOUSE UPHOLDS LITERACY TEST

This morning a parade formed in Opponents to Immigration Bill Are Defeated.

Washington, Feb. 3. - Putting the steam roller to work the house, by a vote of 120 to 173, rejected the motion of Representative Goldfogle, of New York, to strike out the literacy test provision of the Burnett immigration

This action was immediately followed by the adoption of an amendment excluding Hindus and those of the Mongolian, Malay, brown or African races. Only those governed by treaties or agreement are exempted. The vote was 111 to 90.

The action of the house came shortly after friends of the president let it a baggage coach "well supplied." a be known that there should be some diner, a chair can and an observation restrictions to prevent what is known as "assisted finmigration." As far as the literacy test is concerned the president has as yet to make known his views. He is awaiting a conference stand pruning, but it is fatal to young ones. A liberal dressing of stable manure before plowing is recommended. Fall plowing is best. Fertilizer is necessary whether other crops are grown or not. There is such a thing as starving trees.

> Secretary Wilson, of the depart ment of labor, informed congress that he was not opposed to the principle of the literacy test. He recommended making the immigration bill more cially in regard to "white slavery" and skilled laborers imported under con tracts, as well as unskilled laborers.

the old trees have exhausted practicalcontained in the soil, and they need considerable nitrogen in order to produce new wood and to put new vigor into them, and therefore they will stand lots of stable manure. But if they were young, bearing trees in their prime they would need only a light dressing of manure.

contained in a ton of average stable manure is small, not much above twenty-eight pounds, if time is not considered, it is a great humus producer. Humus adds lots of moisture, and humus and moisture working together release the nutritive material already in the soil and put it in shape so that supplying leaf, bud and branch with life and vigor.

ter results than just stable manure alone, phosphate rock, ground bone and potash may be added in the proportion of 100 pounds of phosphate. 200 pounds of ground bone and 100 pounds of potash, but the user will have to be his own judge of just how much to apply to the acre, as there are so many different conditions to be taken into consideration that the same quantity will not answer for all.

It is also important that we practice a good system of shallow cultivation in young orchards. The trees respond to good tillage just as the corn and other cultivated crops. Barnyard manuie, cowpeas and clover are three great fail cover crops for a young or chard Trees ought to stand about thirty feet apart.

Just after the leaf buds in the spring and before the blossom buds open the old orchard should be given a good spraying with the regular bordeaux mixture and paris green or lime-sulphur and arsenate of lead, another one just after the blossoms drop and a third some time later if troubled with the codling moth, which is almost sure to be the case in an old orchard.

As cultivation is needed anyway, it is well to raise vegetables in the orchard, thus making the land pay a good acreage profit even if the fruit has a bad season. Weeds are to be kept our of an orchard as zealously as BIGLERVILLE out of a garden.

Good dramage is important in the apple orchard as elsewhere. The apple does not like "wet feet." For that simple reason it succeeds more often on naturally well drained, rolling land than in low, soggy places.
